THE BOYS' TESTIMONY.

Deputy Coroner Whinnie then read the testimony of the House of Industry boys—Lyons, Van Duche, Kelly, Bache and Smith. The jury expressed a desire to see and hear these boys ior themselves. Coroner Croker warned them that these boy were still immates of the House of Industry, and had been during the period that had elapsed since they gave their testimons, and of course, under such excumstances, there was danger that, one way or another, they might have been tampered with. The boys were placed on the stand, one after another, and the coys' story now only a few strokes had been given Wandeuser, and one boy went so far as to say that when he was giving his testimony to the Coroner, after the post-mortem, he "did not know whether he was standing on his head or his heels." It will be remembered that immediately after the post-mortem examination, Coroner Croker, anticipating that the witnesses might be tampered with, sniered the House of Industry suddenly and without warning, and selected three or lour of the most intelligent looking boys he could see in the achoolro-m. The result of this was that the boys, in the presence of each other and of the Coroner and Or. McWhinnie, gave such testimony as made it imperative to cause the arrest and keep in durance Charles Barnard, who had honged the boy. After the boys' evidence was given yesterday the jury expressed an inclination to resire, and the Coroner allowed them to do so siter giving a few monitory instructions.

An extraordinary vergoics.

The jury remained in deliberation for a long time and finally appeared with the following vertice:—

We find that Joseph Vandeuser came to his death by diarrhoas, augmented by the want of proper care in the care stands of the observation to report and his subsequent removal.

We find that Joseph Vandeuser came to his death by diarrhosa, augmented by the want of proper care in the early stages of the obsesse and his subsequent removal from the hospital.

rem the hospital.

BARMARD AGAIN COMMITTED.

This extraordinary verdict struck everybody with antenna ag it nother annual to the winn-ping, of which there were such evident signs on the boy's body, nor to the ceed bathing of a child suffering 'badly more diarrhees, except in so much as the disease "was augmented by want of care in the early stages." The consulting physician of even the Five Points Heuse of Industry gave exidence which would render such a verdict a dehance to the facts. "Want of care in the early stages of the disease" meant that the boy was neglected during Sunday night, and the jarv then jumped over the bathing of the sick child on Monday morning and the whipping of him in his nakedness to the point that his mother had tessen him out of the instatution, her taking him out being a cause of his death. The Coroner baving read the verdict at once determined, much to the chagrin of the jury, to commit Charles Barnard to the Tombs to a want the action of the Grand Jury. He said he was not satisfied with the verdict, if the jury declied that death was hastened by want of care on the part of some person, that person was responsible for the "augmenting" of a disease that had resulted in a few hours to loss of life. It would now remain for the Grand Jury to say whether or not the conduct of Barnard had so augmented the disease of the child as to induce death. Superintendent Barnard, the prisoner's brother, had stated that the person in charge of the boys, whether hir. Smith or his substitute, Mr. Barnard, was responsible for them, and was bound to report them sick if any were so. One of the three boys, Smith, examined at the time of the post-mortem examination, testified that he was fold by Mr. Barnard to take Vandueser to the hospital, and that he do so because one of the women in the institution had called out from a window that there was a boy lying sick in the hall. Even then neither Shields nor Smith, who were both in the playreund, knew who it was that lay sick in the ball. The Coroner concilined that the extent to which "the want of care in the early stages of the disease" had operated in inducing the sudden death of the boy wa

An inquest was held over the body of Mrs. Catharine Tigne, who was found dead in a lot near Crow Hill on Sunday night last. The jury found a verdict to the effect that she came to her death from paralysis of the heart caused by excitement and undue exercise. The verdict was based on the evidence of her husband and son and the result of the post-mortem examination of Drs. Shepherd, Raymond and Burdick.

Supervisor Ryder says that there is no foundation for the assertion made by some of those "extreme impracticalities" known as reform Supervisors, that there was a farm of seventy acres of land available to supply the institutions with vegetables, for which item a large amount is now annually expended. The farm is not more than nine acres in extent, and would not be sufficient to supply the Almshouse, Hospital, Lunatic Asylum and Sursery.

Justice Walsh yesterday, on complaint of Margaret McLaugalin, residing corner of Madison and Pike stree's, New York, issued a warrant for the arrest of John McLaughin, a patroiman attached to the Eighth precinct police, Gowanus, whom she claims as her husband. The defendant appeared before the Justice and entered into bonds in the sum of $1,500 to answer the charge of bigamy preferred against him, and the examination was set down for the 7th inst. He stated to a reporter that he had met the woman who makes this complaint in a parior in Gotham about jourteen years ago, at a period when he was only lourteen years old. He was subsequently told that they were married, but, though some sort of a ceremony was gone through, he never believed the story. From time to time he had called upon her, but he never regarded her as his wife. For the last five years he had lost sight of her aitogther. On September 12, 1872, he was married to Miss Ellen Cronin, and has one child by his present wife. garet McLaughlin, residing corner of Madison and Flushing is again afflicted with burglars and thieves, who, within a few days past, have committed a number of depredations. About forty choice fowls belonging to Sheriff Covert, at White Pot, were stolen on Tuesday night. On Monday night they entered the residence of Thomas Warren, in Flushing village, but gut no further than the laundry, where a ourgiar alarm aroused the inmates, and the intruders beat a hasty retreat. On the same night the residence of the Rev. C. J. Shepherd, of West Flushing, was entered, and the thieves seem to have taken their time in making a thorough examination of the tered, and the thieves seem to have taken their time in making a thorough examination of the premises, Mr. Shepherd and his lamily being absent. Drawers, chests, trunks—in fact everything in the house was ransacked; but until Mr. Shepherd's return the exact loss cannot be stated.

STATEN ISLAND.

The Trustees of Edgewater have approved the bonds of Mr. Credo, the new Village Treasurer, in the amount of $75,000, and he will sit at the Vil-lage Hail, in Stapleton, on Monday next, to re-ceive taxes. The Board of Excise of Edgewater have made some further changes in the rates of license fees. They have now fixed them at $30 for all saloons, and $60 for grocers and graggists selling fluor at retail. Over fitty licenses were granted yesterday.

The assessment rolls of property in the viliage of Edgewater show an aggregate value of over $7,000,000. The rate of taxation this year is one and three-tentus per cent, which will raise the whole levy to $61,000, including $15,000 extra tax ordered by the courts.

Mrs. Virginia Seymour, a pedler of fancy articles, who stopped over Tuesday night at the house of Mrs. Elizabeth Coles, at Clifton, lost $42 in bills. Mrs. Edizabeth Coles, at Chiton, lost $42 in bills. Yesterday the money was all recovered by members of the county police, who found it in the bed-clotning, although Mrs. Seymour insists that she had previously searched all the bed-clotning thoroughly.

An estimate of the losses of property destroyed by the fire at Tompkinsville on Tuesday evening last has been made. There were only three buildings burned, instead of four as stated—Mr. Kreuzer's house, loss $1,500; Mr. Chifford's barn, $800, and Henry Popper's house, $1,500, making the entire loss only $3,500, instead of $1,000, as first reported. Most of the loss is covered by insurance.

Donations to the library were acknowledged from eight sources, among which were the new produce exchanges of Chicago and Philadelphia.

In the same time 502 visitors were introduced, sixteen new members were received and two have died, viz.:—Mr. William Wallace, provision dealer, and Mr. Isaac N. Halladay, flour merchant.

Twenty copies of an elegantly bound and beautifully illustrated work, entitled "Shakespeare's Home and Rural Life," have been received from the author, Mr. James Walter, in England. They are for sale, the price being $15, and no doubt will speedly find purchasers among the members of the exchange.

MAIL AGENTS MEETING.

A meeting of the postal clerks representing the New York and Washington, Washington and Weldon, New York and Erie, Hudson River, New York and Boston, Washington and Lynchourg and Washington and Grafton railway postal routes was held at the Pacific Hotel yesteriay. The object proposed is the advancement of the service and also the formation of a mutual benefit association. The lines were well represented. Mr. Warring, of the New York and Washington route, was called to the chair, and Mr. Hulse, of the Washington and Weldon, was made corresponding secretary of the society. A committee of four, Messrs. Butts, Hulse, Holden and Zoniey, were appointed to draft a set of resolutions and forward one to each clerk in the railway mail service in order to explain the object of the meeting. The meeting adjourned to meet in Chicago, Ill., at some time in October. These gentlemen have the full sanction of the Post Office Department, not being a political organization but merely for the advancement of their common interests, as well as those of the press and every one who exchanges and Boston, Washington and Lynchourg and sanction of the Past of the Department, not being a political organization but merely for the advancement of their common interests, as well as those of the press and every one who exchanges ideas through the mails. Buis B Young, bound from Machiasport for Lubec, was picked up with no one on board, in April last, and towed into Jonesport. The wreck laid on the beach until last week, when the pilings and spars which made the load were removed. In the hold the body of Thomas Murphy, the captain, was found, and in a good state of preservation. It is thought that artist the house had been swept off in the gale the captain went into the hold for protection. The body was taken to Machiasport for burial.
